

General Braddock traveled this road in 1755, fighting Indians in a European War.

Ran away from the subscriber, living in Rockville, Montgomery county, Md., on Saturday, 31st of May last, about twenty-two years of age; five feet seven inches high; dark copper color, and rather good looking.

NEGRO MAN, ALFRED,

He had on when he left a dark blue and green plaid frock coat, of cloth, and lighter color plaid pantaloons. I will give the above reward if taken out of the county, and in any of the States, or fifty dollars if taken in the county or the District of Columbia, and secured so that I can get him again.

JOHN W. ANDERSON.

Runaway slave notice: Rockville, 1856.

Rockville residents interacting.

Resident Emily Edmonson, part of the largest attempted escape on the Underground Railroad. Later worked closely with Frederick Douglas.

Lincoln's rocking chair from Ford's
Theater; a martyr to black voting rights.

William Gibbs at the time he challenged the Mongomery County Board of Education.

Civil rights era boycott handout.

Fugitive Slave Law Convention with Frederick Douglas & Edmonson sisters - demanded Rockville release prisoner William Chaplin. Nominated Chaplin for president on Liberty Party ticket.

Studio William Cochran, Inc Proposed Replacement images for the Cornerstone Mural August 6, 2009

These are the images the artist will choose from when replacing approximately six of the images in the Cornerstone mural. These replacements derive from additional research, community input and a desire to tell the story of the Town Center land and North Washington Street as fully as possible.